

NEW COMBINE IS REPORTED IN POLITICS

Have Stephenson And Davidson Joined Hands
In Close Combination Now?

THIS IS WHISPERED AT MADISON

Bits Of Gossip Relative To The Situation In Wisconsin On The Question Of Politics In General Most Interesting Just Now.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., June 6.—An interesting little tidbit of political gossip is to the effect that Lieutenant Governor W. D. Connor and Senator La Follette, who run republican politics in Wisconsin successfully to their own interests for a few years and then fall out and quarrel, have been left out in a new combination that has the elements of great strength.

Stephenson-Combine.
It is said that Governor Davidson and Senator Isaac Stephenson have mutually agreed that the anti-federalist who for many years contributed the financial resources to the La Follette machine, will finance the campaign of Governor Davidson.

Plenty Of Funds.
It appears assured that there will not be much financial need for Governor Davidson's campaign from officers being received all over the state at the present time.

Other Gossip.
Davidson's nomination papers have been received with much universal approval all over the state that there appears to be but little doubt that his campaign will be simply a walk-away. Becker's campaign is not taken seriously. The democrats are considering giving John A. Howard another opportunity to demonstrate his ability to campaign in a hopeless cause, but A. Howard has not yet said yes.

State Officers.
Except for State Treasurer Hendon, it is questionable whether there will be any change in the official line from the present time. It is usual to give the state officers a second term if they have not incurred the wrath of the powers to be, but the question of the primary law is to be reckoned with this year.

Hopes For Support.
It is believed by supporters of W.

Hain H. Hutton, former state senator and candidate for the nomination for United States senator, that he will be materially helped in his campaign because of the opinion of the supreme court establishing the constitutionality of the railroad commission law.

Hutton's Work.
This bill was formulated by the railroad committee of the state senate in 1905, of which Senator Hutton was chairman. It was largely the work of Senator Hutton and the result of investigation and study made by him.

Others Aided.
He has no exclusive title, however, to the credit of making the law such as to stand the test of judicial examination, for Senators George B. Hildreth of Superior and John M. Whitehead of Janesville, leading lawyers of the senate, added their knowledge of the law to the work of the committee in a way that resulted in making a strong enactment.

Cook and Others.
When Cook made his announcement and McGovern of Milwaukee wanted the shoes of Stephenson, the fight has been a quiet one but bitterly earnest. Cook is finding it hard to line up the support he had when he was nominated for the governorship in the convention of 1901 by the Opera House convention after his desertion of the cause in the middle of the summer. McGovern bears too strongly the brand of the reformer to have much support outside of Milwaukee.

Wait Stephenson.
In other words it appears as though the whole senatorship hinges on Stephenson's decision. If he wants to run for re-election he will have the support that would otherwise be divided between Hutton, Cook and McGovern and it is possible that the support might enter the field. Thus far the gentleman from Marinette has nothing to say as to his plans.

TAFT GAINS TWO MORE STATES IN COMMITTEE ROOM

This Tip Comes From Chicago—Cortelyou or Sherman for Vice-President.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Ill., June 6.—The Republican National committee commenced its deliberations today with far less apparent interest in the proceedings than was manifested yesterday. The first contest taken up was that of the delegates at large from Florida.

The Taft delegates at large from Florida and from the second district of Florida were seated by the national committee.

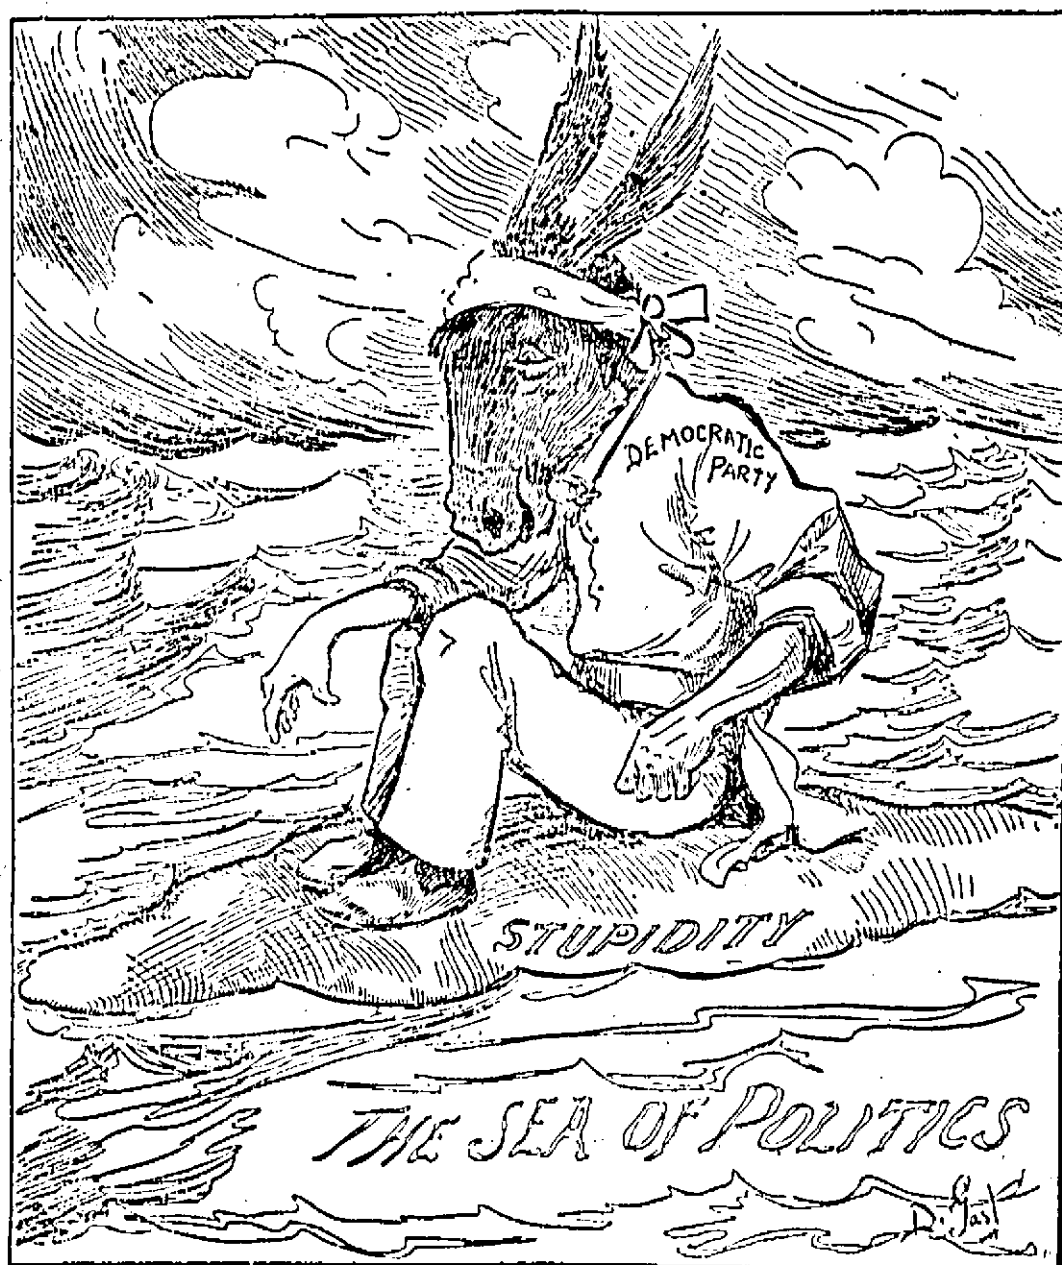

On the call for the hearing for delegates at large in Georgia the anti-Taft element failed to appear and the delegates were seated by default.

It was said by a number of prominent politicians today that the sentiment on the vice-presidential question is settling over New York. The two men most prominently mentioned in this connection were Secretary Cortelyou and Representative James E. Sherman.

Another story heard this morning is that Dolliver is slated for second place if Fairbanks will not accept the running mate's place. This is merely whispered as yet but may develop. The handling to Taft of the Alabama and Arkansas delegates yesterday lends to the discussion that the allies Fairbanks, Knox, Hughes and Cannon have lost their last opportunity to make a fight against the man from Ohio, and that Taft will have the nomination of the first ballot. However this may be, there is unusual activity at the headquarters of the different candidates with a view of showing fight up to the last minute at any rate. Roosevelt's plans for a foreign trip, made public yesterday, which means he will leave in April next, has knocked out the last support of the men who claimed he would run for a third term.

The representatives of five other states than Ohio which have candidates for the republican presidential nomination met here today and announced they will make formal protest to the republican national convention on the manner in which they are being ignored by the dominating elements in the republican party.

Play In Beloit: The Beloit White Sox will line up against the Janesville Athletics in Beloit next Sunday. The White Sox hold a record of winning five straight games with no defeats this year, while the Janesville sluggers have won three out of four.

Our College Graduates—Why don't they ask us for a little advice?

FRENCH SCHOOL HAS 100TH ANNIVERSARY

St. Cyr Military Academy Founded
Napoleon Will Be One Hundred Years Old Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Paris, June 6.—The famous French military school of St. Cyr, founded by Napoleon, will be one hundred years old tomorrow, and it is proposed to celebrate the centennial in a notable manner during the coming week. Reminiscences of the graduates, dress parades of the cadets and historical exercises will be features of the program. As a permanent memorial of the centennial the war department has issued a Golden Book of the graduates. Those include five marshals of France, 1,100 generals and about 30,000 officers of all ranks. The records of these cover practically the whole field of French military glory.

St. Cyr usually has from 700 to 800 pupils and graduates about 400 officers annually. It is now run on lines resembling those of the United States military academy at West Point, but in its early days the training was rough and the discipline severe. Duels were frequent and it is on record that in the first five years fourteen boys were killed and more than 100 wounded in personal encounters.

Napoleon I. gave the school the flag which is still carried on state occasions at the head of the battalions. The inscription on it is: "They learn to conquer."

NEWS-FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

Five Democratic State Conventions to Be Held This Coming Week in the Different States.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., June 6.—The near approach of the republican national convention will cause the party leaders to turn their attention toward Chicago, where the arrangements for the gathering will be completed during the week and headquarters opened in the interest of the various presidential aspirants. Toward the end of the week the advance guard of delegates and visitors will put in an appearance and the pre-convention activity will commence in earnest.

During the week democratic state conventions to select delegates to Denver will be held in Virginia, Utah, Oregon, Kentucky and Montana. Bryanism is expected to dominate, though there is talk of possible attempts to block instructions in Virginia and Montana.

The fight between Senator Alfred H. Kittredge and Governor Coe L. Crawford for the seat of the former in the United States senate will be settled at the general primary to be held Tuesday in South Dakota. At the same nominations will be made for all states offices.

An event of social interest will be the wedding here next Wednesday of Miss Juliette Williams and Joseph Lister of Chicago.

College commencements will occupy a large share of public attention. Noted speakers will be heard at many institutions, but probably those attracted most attention will be the addresses of Governor Johnson of Minnesota at the university of Kansas and of Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese ambassador, at the university of Illinois.

The annual convention of United Confederate Veterans at Birmingham will occupy first place in the long list of conventions scheduled for the week.

Are Vice-Presidents: D. J. Luby and Thomas Hayes will be vice-presidents at the big field day to be held at Evansville on June tenth, by the St. Pauls society.

KITTREDGE MAY NOT BE RETURNED TO THE SENATE

Stalwarts And Progressives Of South Dakota
In Vicious Factional Fight.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Pierre, S. D., June 6.—The two factions of the republican party in South Dakota, known as the stalwarts and the progressives, have girded for the final round in the political prize-ring, which will come next Tuesday with the general state primary. The result will determine whether Alfred H. Kittredge is to hold his seat in the United States senate or surrender it to Governor Coe L. Crawford, the progressive leader.

At the primary candidates will be chosen by all parties for senator and for a full state ticket from governor down. South Dakota is known as a safe republican state and as a consequence the interest is confined almost exclusively to the contest within that party. And of the two contests the fight for the senatorship absorbs most attention.

The campaign now ending has been the bitterest and most vicious political encounter South Dakota has ever known. The March primary and the state convention held by the republicans early in April to select delegates to the Chicago convention only added fuel to the partisan flame. Surprised, and in some instances, almost dismayed by the result of the first primary, the Kittredge forces have girded themselves for the final engagement next Tuesday and are putting forth every effort and pulling every wire for success. Flushed with victory in the preliminary skirmish and cheered by the prestige which it carries, the progressives have returned to the speaker with the determination to give no quarter and to supplant Kittredge in the senate by Crawford and also to name their full state ticket.

The stalwarts frankly concede that they have the fight of their lives on their hands, but say they will win. They were caught napping in the preliminary bout, but profess to believe that the Crawford victory in March proved a blessing to them by calling out every force which they could muster and arousing the Kittredge men as never before. Senator Kittredge himself is confident of success. Some of his lieutenants who were trifled with by the progressives in March have now recovered their confidence and declare they are satisfied with the prospects.

Senator Kittredge, who is fighting for re-election, is a native of New Hampshire and a graduate of Yale.

The candidate of the stalwart faction for member of the republican national committee is H. M. Finerman and the progressive candidate for the same honor is Thomas Thurston.

Should the democrats by an unexpected turn to events succeed in getting control of the legislature the next year, Senator from South Dakota would probably be former Governor Andrew E. Lea of Vermillion.

JEWISH FEAST DAY IS OBSERVED TODAY

Orthodox Hebrews Celebrate the Giving of the Tablets of Their Law.

Orthodox Jews celebrated yesterday and today as the two feast days in commemoration of the presentation of the Ten Commandments to Moses on Mount Sinai. In the Jewish calendar this is known as Shavuot and the feast falls upon the sixth and seventh of the month, but the reformed Jewish churches celebrate only the first of the two days.

In Palestine, today has the additional significance of Thanksgiving day, commemorating the event of the season in the Temple of Jerusalem at that time. These two days not only marked the harvesting of the first crops, but according to the Moslem Jews, the farmers were required to make their offerings to the Temple immediately.

During this festival, the religiousist will engage in no work of a secular nature whatever. The orthodox churches hold special services today especially those in Europe where they still observe the custom of decorating the interior of their places of worship lavishly with foliage and flowers. In recognizing the joyousness of the occasion at this time, it also associates the memory of the early Thanksgiving day when they harvested their first crop.

These two days are also the anniversary of the real birth of the idea of Monotheism and are of especial significance to students of Hebrew lore for this reason. Adherents to this idea claim that this event marks the beginning of Hebrew culture and civilization, for according to their theory, previous to the granting of the ten commandments to the Jewish race, the idea had not been firmly imbedded within their minds and therefore the Chaldean and Egyptian civilizations were prevailing.

By the most orthodox worshippers of the Jewish religion, tonight will be spent in the churches and synagogues reading the bible and holy words. This is also considered one of the five important feast days which they commemorate during the year.

He came to South Dakota in 1885 and began the practice of law in Sioux Falls. He was appointed to the United States Senate in 1901 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James H. Kyle, and two years later was elected for a full term of six years.

Governor Coe L. Crawford, the aggressive opponent of Senator Kittredge, is fifty years old and a native of Iowa. He graduated from the state university of Iowa and for about ten years thereafter practiced law in that state. In 1884 he came to this city and soon grew into prominence both politically and professionally. His first public office was that of State's Attorney of Hughes county. He served in the legislature and as Attorney-General of South Dakota. In 1897 he removed to Huron and became attorney for the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company. Two years ago he was elected governor.

The factional fight among the republicans is also extended to the representatives in Congress. Philo Hall, one of the present representatives, is a candidate for re-election on the progressive ticket. The other candidates of that faction are W. S. Glass of Codrington. The stalwart candidates are E. W. Martin and C. H. Burke.

The two factional tickets for state officers are as follows:

Stalwart: Governor, J. L. Browner; Lieutenant governor, J. E. Schrader; secretary of state, J. J. Walther, Jr.; treasurer, George C. Johnson; auditor, C. E. Warner, superintendent of public instruction, M. M. Ramer; attorney general, I. A. Hewitt; land commissioner, M. D. Eldre; railroad commissioner, H. O. Wickner.

Progressive: Governor, R. H. Veasey; Lieutenant governor, H. C. Shober; secretary of state, H. C. Polley; treasurer, C. H. Cassell; auditor, John Hirsing; superintendent of public instruction, H. A. Thurst; attorney general, S. W. Clark; land commissioner, O. C. Dokong; railroad commissioner, F. C. Robinson.

The candidate of the stalwart faction for member of the republican national committee is H. M. Finerman and the progressive candidate for the same honor is Thomas Thurston.

Should the democrats by an unexpected turn to events succeed in getting control of the legislature the next year, Senator from South Dakota would probably be former Governor Andrew E. Lea of Vermillion.

LAFOLLETTE TALKS ON COMMITTEEMAN

Arrives in Milwaukee to Discuss
Question of Party Politics This Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., June 6.—United States Senator Robert M. La Follette was in the city for a few hours en route from Washington to his home in Madison. Mr. La Follette made a close connection in Chicago, for Milwaukee, and arrived here on the eleven o'clock train. He went direct to the offices of the Milwaukee Free Press. Later he met District Attorney McGovern and a few other chosen friends among his lieutenants. Just what the talk was about could not be learned but it is believed that one of the subjects under discussion was the La Follette selection of candidates for national commitment to be chosen from Wisconsin by the Wisconsin delegation when it meets in Chicago one week from Saturday.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

Edwin A. Nye, whose "Heart to Heart" talks have appeared on this page for the past month, has this to say about boys:

"Oh, my boy is all right. He may be a little wild, but I am sure he would not do anything very bad."

That was the way a fond mother spoke of her son when a friend hinted concerning the young man's habits.

The son is of age, a kind hearted, bright young fellow, and is the idol of his mother.

What are the facts about the boy? In a word, he is doing about everything a boy ought not to do. He does more than take an "occasional drink." He gambles regularly. He attends to business all right in business hours. Out of business hours he devotes himself to various vices.

The fact is this young man is rapidly going to the dogs.

And there is pathos in the thought that his mother believes he is a good sort of boy, only "a little wild." She will never know her son as he is until some crisis comes. Some day he is likely to disgrace his family and cruelly shock a doting mother.

Why is the son going wrong?

He comes of a good family. He has been well educated. His mother has taught him from his youth up the principles of right living. Having fortified him in this way, his parents do not dream that the son is leading a dissolute and unclean life.

Father and mother do not know their son. They do not know his real thoughts, habits, inclinations, associations. They think they do, but they don't.

It may be this boy got away from home influences when he was a lad. Many boys do get away early. Mothers sometimes are unable to keep a string around them. Mothers sometimes think they are keeping tab on the little fellows when they are not doing so. They are deceived.

It matters not when the young man here mentioned happened to be corrupted. This is sure—his case is a typical one. There are thousands of young men deceiving their parents just as this one is doing. Being of the stature and age of men, they are free to come and go at will. It is difficult to know their manner of life. And you would have difficulty in convincing the parents that their boys are not all right.

Do you know your big boy?

You may think that, having got him safely up to manhood, you can let him go, whereas you ought to know that manhood presents many special and peculiar temptations.

Do you know your son?

Are you sure?

It is a little old truth that other people know our children much better than we know them, and this is especially true of boys.

The teacher in any public school is usually better acquainted with the boys in her room than are the parents at home.

Her mind is unprejudiced, by the love which overlooks faults, and condones shortcomings, and if she could be made a confidant, it would be better for the boy and better for the home.

It is easy to deceive a loving mother, and not at all difficult to fool a father, for the average father is seldom nearer than arms' length to the boy, during the years of development preceding young manhood.

This is not the fault of the boy, but rather his misfortune, for if there is over a time when he needs comradeship and advice, it is at the age when he is neither boy nor man.

This is the drifting age in a boy's life. The age when the home becomes monotonous, and when the "call of the wild" from every quarter, appeals to him.

The age when he slips away from church and Sunday school to the woods and fields, or to the ball game, with but few twinges of conscience.

The age when any reference to the mother's "apron strings" is like a red rag to a bull, for he would rather deny his birthright than be thought of "slimy" or in any way offend.

This is the boy, and he is representative, who half a dozen years later is to find a place in the ranks of the great army of young men who have passed the age limit of boyhood, to enter upon the monotonous work of everyday life.

Then it frequently happens that for the first time the father and mother begin to know their own boy, for while he may have been the idol of the household, he has now entered a realm where idols are not recognized, and where merit alone wins.

The concept of youth melts away like a snowflake under the cold inspection of an exciting world, and unless a boy is made of the right kind of stuff, backed by a home composed of the same material, he is likely to go down before the first blast.

The feeling is shared by boys generally, that it will be a relief to get away from home and its restraints, and out into a life of independence, where freedom to act is never questioned. But that is a mistaken notion, as every boy finds to his surprise.

There will be no doting mother, or easy-going father, to excuse us of old, when a night of mild discipline made him late for breakfast and school.

The busy world, of which he has become a part, says, on the day of initiation, "We commence work at 7 o'clock." That's all.

If his mother had been talking she would have added, "Try to be on hand in time," and his father might have said, "It will pay you to be prompt," yet the voice of his new taskmaster adds nothing to the simple statement; yet that voice is law, more inexorable than any command ever issued in the home.

This is but the beginning and the new recruit soon discovers that being on time is the simplest of all requirements.

He is expected to work without being told, and to do his best without praise or compliment, and he soon becomes conscious of the fact that he is no longer the all-important figure in a very small circle, but just an ordinary speck on the horizon, that nobody would miss if brushed aside.

The rules of a well-regulated home, or school, are often considered irksome, and the boy who can violate, without detection, is a hero among his associates, but in the larger arena the laws which govern are not heralded. Many of them, and the most important, belong to the unwritten class, yet observance is absolutely necessary to success.

A man of 65 said, the other day, "I have forgotten how to play." His life had been so busy, and the forces which held him to his work, so exacting in demands, that but little time had been given to rest and recreation.

Organized labor assumes to regulate time employed, and responsibility for results, but its members soon become machines and seldom get to the front.

The great rank and file of labor is a stranger to the walking delegate, and organized delegation.

Life, after all, is what we make it. The boy who enters through its wide-open doors from the sheltering influence of home, will find a cold, exciting world, yet a world ready to meet him half way, for it is a good old world with plenty of sunshine and a cordial greeting, for every willing worker. Someone with a heart in the right place, recently wrote the following eulogy:

"A cold world, but a gold world, and the best old world we've got—So laugh and be contented and be happy with your lot!"

A cold world, but a gold world, when the heart is beating right.

When the hands have done their duty, And the eyes find hidden beauty In the sweet and simple valleys and the hills that lead to light!

"A cold world, but a gold world, and the best old world we know, So, deck the lips with laughter and forget about your woe!"

A cold world, but a whole world of blessings in disguise.

When we take its paths of gloaming To the golden shores of dreaming, The violets in the meadows and the sunshine in the skies!"

Look Always for the Best.

Do not think of your faults, still less of others' faults; in every person who comes near you, look for what is good and strong; honor that; rejoice in it; and as you can, try to imitate it; and your faults will drop off like dead leaves when their time comes.—Ruskin.

A LIGHT IN THE WINDOW.

In the pauper's graveyard at Coffeyville, Kan., lies the dust of a man who wrote the song, "There's a Light in the Window For Thee."

Rev. Edmund Dunbar wrote other popular songs, but the one mentioned above is pathetically associated with his erratic career in life.

Dunbar spent three years in the Minnesota penitentiary for bigamy and then became a wanderer on the face of the earth, a vagabond. He turned up at Coffeyville and applied at the city jail for food and lodging. He died the same night. Letters on his body identified him. He was buried in the pauper's field, and his body was recently taken back to the home of his childhood.

Factory boy, sailor, student, minister, convict, tramp—that was the crescendo and diminuendo in the theme of Edward Dunbar, a theme constituted mostly of minor chords.

When he was a lad working in a factory late at night his mother always kept a light in the window for him.

When he went to sea on a long cruise his mother still kept the light burning, and when she died before he came back her last words were these: "Tell my boy I will keep a light burning in heaven for him."

Therefore the song.

On the stormy night of his death in a common calaboose did his spirit, as it beat its wings upon the battered cage of a worn and weary body, see a light in the window? Maybe so. At any rate, his story illustrates again Stevenson's immortal tale of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Dunbar was at one time a brilliant minister, an evangelist of unusual power who always struck a sure note of pathos. But there was a bad streak in him somewhere. He was sent to prison for promiscuous marrying and afterward went to places, degenerating into a common tramp.

There are those who believe that genius is aberration. Anyway, this is true of us all, genius or otherwise. We are all doubles. We are both Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

In man are both brute and angel. It is only the angel that sees the light in the window.

Visited the Mine: The stockholders of the Fox Lead and Zinc Co. visited the mine at Denton, on Thursday. Two new pumps have been installed and every thing is working in good order. Thursday they run out 25 tons of zinc and 2300 tons of lead, in ten hours run. They have every reason to believe that the Fox Lead & Zinc Mine, is to be one of the best in the state.

Trailing Sidewalk Bikers: Officer Thomas Morbey posted himself at the corner of Jackson and Pleasant streets last evening and kept tab on some of the bikers who are using the sidewalks for a highway. Several of them were ordered to report in municipal court. Certain Parker Pen Co. employees who are alleged to take to the sidewalks on South Main street as soon as they have passed the park and who are also alleged to have acquired the insidious habit of yelling at pedestrians to "get out of the way" will also receive attention.

NEW FRANCHISES TO BE OBTAINED

ROCKFORD INTERURBAN COMPANY NO LEGAL RIGHT IN CITY.

OF STATE WIDE EFFECT

Will Mean That Majority of Roads Operating in Wisconsin Will be in Legal Difficulties.

That the interurban railroad in Janesville without legal right to operate its cars on the streets of Janesville, is the result of a decision of the supreme court affirming the order of the circuit court in the suit brought by W. H. H. MacLennan and others.

The company was beaten in the lower court and took an appeal to the supreme court, which the appellate court acted upon adversely to the company. The litigation started in injunction proceedings brought separately by Messrs. MacLennan, Wm. P. Branson and Floyd MacLennan to restrain the company from operating interurban passenger and baggage cars on certain streets of Janesville.

The particular objection was against the use of the streets upon which the interurban loop is maintained. The specific point upon which the case turned in the supreme court was that the franchise which the company was given by the common council was for street cars, while the company operated only interurban cars.

The litigation has been in progress for years. The common council granted a 50-year franchise and the mayor vetoed it, but the ordinance passed the ordinance over the veto.

Thos. S. Nolan, attorney for the interurban road said in an interview this morning relative to the matter as follows:

"I received word late yesterday afternoon from the Clerk of the Supreme Court, that the case of Branson, et al, versus Hollett, Delavan Lake & Janesville Railroad company had been decided adversely to the company. "I have not received a copy of the opinion yet, but expect one by next mail. The only thing the company was afraid of in the case was that there is nothing in the franchise which authorizes the operation of interurban cars over the line in this city. This point, however, was not raised by the attorneys for the plaintiffs, but the Supreme Court must, in my judgment, have decided against the company for this reason.

"The material points of the ordinance granting the franchise was drawn by W. W. Gurley, general counsel of the Union Traction Company, of Chicago, or in his office, and as he is supposed to be the best authority in the country on street railway law, the ordinance was generally believed to be all right.

"It will be remembered, however, that the ordinance granting the franchise to the Janesville & Madison Railway Company provided for the passage and operation of interurban as well as urban cars belonging to the company over the line in the city. If I am right about it the Hollett, Delavan Lake & Janesville Railroad Company has a franchise for a street railway, but has not the right to operate interurban cars over it.

"It will be necessary, therefore, to apply to the Common Council for this right. I assume that the application will be made in due course, and it does not seem probable that such a franchise will be denied.

"If the Supreme Court has decided this case against the company for the reason which I have stated, it will be found that every company operating interurban railways in the state is without such a franchise.

"I do not think any blame or negligence can be attributed to the companies, for the reason that the law authorizing the building of street railways gave the right to build or extend beyond the city limits into adjoining towns, not stating that an adjoining franchise was or is necessary."

This decision will affect all interurban roads in the state. A similar case was brought up from Waukesha recently and decided in a similar manner. This will mean that new applications must be made for franchises throughout the state where interurban cars are being run over city car lines. In Madison a similar condition exists and it is possible that the city attorney there may take action against Mr. Montgomery's line which runs outside the city to South Madison.

OPEN-AIR CONCERT SEASON IS AT HAND

Even More Hamlets Are Preparing to Enjoy Themselves—Janesville is Not "in the Procession."

"Why aren't the bugles blowing, ma?" cried Nell and little Ned. "The gramophones suffice your pa." "The weary mother said, "What makes the night so solemn still." "Taint time to go to bed." "The TOWN'S asleep, the town's ASLEEP." "The weary mother said, "Vanishing Muses."

This week the summer season of band concerts was inaugurated in Janesville, Milton Junction, and a score of other neighboring towns and cities, but from all indications the din of the barroom nickel-in-the-slot-phonos and five-cent theatre harlequin-musicals will constitute Janesville's solo serious effort in the line of open-air music during the warm evenings of June. While sunny breezes are blowing and the tropical band, after ten enjoyable seasons, is going to discontinue its concerts in the Courthouse park, nobody has had enough of the music to pass the hat. Lector Al Knoff has had enough of these beguiling expeditions and the majority of the players are indifferent, anyway. During the past two years the citizens have parted with from $200 to $250 for ten programs and the band has had to bear the expense of the lumber for the stand, the building up and tearing down operations each evening, the lights, and the chairs. After expenses were deducted there was less than a dollar a night in it for the musicians. "If the limit could be raised to a dollar a night for the men (and that's pretty small recompense) and they should not be compelled to themselves, circulate the subscription list and attend to the collections, the musicians might take heart. But such contingencies are hardly to be reckoned as within the realm of possibility, while the present uninterrupted sway of General Apathy continues.

CLOSED YEAR'S WORK WITH THE BANQUET

Musical Organizations of High School Enjoy Social Evening Together.

On Friday evening, the musical organizations of the high school, who have been under the direction of Mrs. Georgia Hyde during the past year, held a most enjoyable closing banquet in the Domestic Science room of the school. A tempting four-course banquet was served after which a post-prandial program was given. Leo Aspinwall being in the chair as toastmaster. "The Organization" was Professor H. C. Russell's toast, and Miss Carole Staines responded to the "Boys" while Ronald H. Arls gave the response. W. R. Tallman gave the prophesy, and Miss Vera Nolan the "Farewell to the Seniors." Mrs. Hyde then made a few remarks. After this program was finished the party adjourned to the art room where a social evening was spent. The musical organizations are composed of the fourteen members of the Girl's Glee club, eighteen in the Boy's Glee club, and twelve in the orchestra—thirty-six in all. The faculty were invited to the spread, but only six were able to respond, making forty who sat down to the feast.

BASE BALL AND THE ATHLETIC FEATURES

Y. M. C. A. Makes Plans For General
Outing and Games of the Teams.

The Junior Y. M. C. A. team and the Beloit Junior team are to cross bats at the fair grounds this afternoon. If the home team wins, another game will be played to decide the championship. The Juniors have planned for several jaunts up the river this summer, spending the day at one of the parks up the river and having a special good time. This afternoon a picked team from the Junior Pen Co. and the Senior team of the Y. M. C. A. will play ball. The Y. M. C. A. tennis court on the corner of Marion and Milwaukee streets has been treated with a covering of sand and rolled. This makes a court which does not get full of ridges after a rain. It will not be used for a short time as they are waiting for a rain to pack the court down.
